FRIDAY, June 19, 1730. NUMB. X.

Some Particulars relating to the Dutch West-India Company; taken from Letters from Holland.

SINCE the Departure of the Deputies of the West-India Company, their High Mightineſs's Deputies have made their Report to the Aſſembly; but they are not yet come to any Reſolution, becauſe three Provinces only have as yet given their Conſent to it, namely, Gelderland, Frieſland, and Groningen, the four others having taken the Affair ad referendum. However, it is not doubted, but they will ſoon have Orders to conſent; and then the Octroy will be drawn up and ſent to the Proſs. Mean while, we have it from good Hands, that it will conſiſt of 24 Articles; wherein will be ſettled the Conditions of the Freedom of Navigation upon the Coaſts of Africa and America; the Acknowledgment according to the Burden of each Ship; and the Precautions to be taken for preventing Frauds and the ill Uſe that may be made of the Paſports.

The chief Heads of the ſaid Octroy, Grant, or Patent, are theſe; viz.

All the Ships are to be Dutch built, upon the Penalty of forfeiting 6000 Florins for the Benefit of the Company.

No Ships or Veſſels may be employed in this Trade, exceeding 120 Foot from Stem to Stern; ſo that Florins.

A Ship of 70 Foot, or 45 Tons is to pay	3000
And for every Ton exceeding that Meaſure	60
A Ship of 80 Foot, or 60 Tons	3900
90 Foot, or 80 Tons	5100
100 Foot, or 110 Tons	6900
110 Foot, or 125 Tons	7800
120 Foot, or 160 Tons	9000

In Conſideration of which Payment, the Ship is to be free from all other Impoſts.

The Maſters are to give 6000 Florins Security, and to declare upon Oath their Bills of Lading before they ſet Sail, out of which they are to pay 3 per Cent to the Company, by the Terms of the Octroy: And when they have received their Paſports, they are at Liberty to trade in any Country without the Company's Octroy, except from Cape Apollonia to Rio de Volta, which is about 60 Leagues, which the Company reſerve to themſelves: But then they may traffic in Foreign Countries, if they will run the Hazard.

They may trade in Negroes, and carry them to any Part of the Weſt-Indies, except to Surinam, Barbices, and Iſequebeq, the Company having Contracts with thoſe Colonies.

Among the Articles deſigned to prevent Frauds, there is one that authorizes all the Company's Ships to go on board the other Ships of the Republic, and examine if their Paſports be in due Form; and if they are not, they may confiſcate ſuch Ships; and all the Subjects of this State, which ſhall be on board thoſe Ships, are forbid to make any Reſiſtance, or to fire a ſingle Fuzee, on Pain of Death. The Confiſcation is to be one Moiety to the Taker, and the other Moiety to the Company. Our Merchants promiſe themſelves great Advantages from this Freedom of Commerce upon the Coaſts of Africa and America, and the Proprietors of the Company are no leſs ſanguine upon the Sums which the Paſports will produce, and the 3 per Cent upon the Cargoes.

The preceding Abſtracts being the beſt Accounts we are able to procure of this new Reſolution in Holland, to open the Trade of their Weſt-India Company; it may not be an improper Sequel, to inſert here the Account given of that Company's Trade in the Atlas Maritimus & Commercialis, which for its general Uſefulneſs may be eſteemed a Treaſury of all that is neceſſary to the Theory of Trade and Navigation.

THE Dutch, however they have extended themſelves in other Parts of the World, and carry on a moſt advantageous Commerce in Africa and Aſia, have had but bad Luck in America.

They had a Footing there indeed once, and a Weſt-India Company was formed upon it, about the Year 1636 to 1654; when by a ſurpriſing Step they got the beſt Colony in the World for Trade into their Hands: For they had once the greateſt Part of the Braſils, if not all of it, in actual Poſſeſſion, and kept it for many Years; and had they held it till now, with all the vaſt Improvements ſince made, and the prodigious Wealth in the Mines of Gold diſcovered there, they had been as much ſuperior to all the Nations of the World in Trade and Wealth, and perhaps in Strength too, as they are now inferior to them in Quantity of Land.

But in the Year 1640, the Portugueſe in Europe having revolted from the Spaniards, to whom they had been ſubject for 60 Years, they alſo meditated a Revolt from the Dutch in the Braſils, but could not bring it to paſs till the Year 1665, when they roſe upon the Dutch, and that with ſuch an impetuous Torrent, that before the States were able to ſend their People ſufficient Succours, they were driven out of the whole Country, except a Fortreſs or two, which they were afterwards obliged to ſurrender. Beſides, the Dutch being at that Time engaged in a bloody and unſucceſsful War with England, could neither ſpare their Men for ſuch an Expedition, nor Ships of War to convoy them; ſo they were obliged to quit the Braſils upon a Treaty with Portugal.

This ruined their Intereſts in America as to Trade, and in the End broke their Weſt-India Company: And tho' they have the Name of a Company ſtill, and have a renewed Stock as they are concerned in ſeveral Trades, as particularly that to Africa, yet they are not the ſame, nor built upon any Part of the Old Fund; neither are they any Way conſiderable in themſelves.

To add to the Misfortunes above, which were indeed a great Blow to them, the Dutch loſt afterwards another Colony in America, that now called New-York, which they called New-Amſterdam, and which was taken from them by the Engliſh in 1665, and afterwards intirely conceded to England by the Treaty of Nimeguen; which ſome ſaid was conſented to by the Dutch, as a kind of Satisfaction for the Violence uſed by them upon the Engliſh Factory at Amboyna: but the Dutch would not allow it to be ſo, for that would have fixed the Odium of that vile Action upon them by a kind of public Acknowledgment.

What remains to the Dutch in America, are chiefly three ſmall Iſlands, very near the Shore of South America, which in ſome of our Maps is called Caribeana, by ſome the Continent of S. Martha, but by the Spaniards Tierra Firma and Guiana. Theſe Iſlands are Curaſau, or Curacao, Buen Ayre, and Aruba. Beſides which, they have a ſmall Colony on the Continent called Surinam (where they have good Sugar, Cotton, and Cocoa) but it is not large, nor do they improve it, as Dutch Men uſually do, or as they do other Places.

Theſe Iſlands are very fruitful, and would, if cultivated, produce very good Sugar, Ginger, Cotton, Indigo, and other valuable Things; and ſome of all theſe the Dutch do raiſe there; but their main Commerce, and which makes thoſe Iſlands more profitable to them than tenfold the natural Produce of the Place, is their private Trade with the Spaniards, who come to thoſe Iſlands in ſmall Boats, or the Dutch carry their Goods in Sloops to ſuch Places as they agree upon, in the ſame Manner as the Sloop Trade to Jamaica is carried on.

Beſides theſe, the Dutch have Part of the Iſland of S Vincent; but the Trade of it is inconſiderable; the Engliſh have the other Part; and the principal Advantage made of it is for Cattel, which the other Caribbee Iſlands cannot breed up as they do in this of S. Vincent.

The Dutch have alſo a very ſmall Iſland called S. Euſtachius, where they have Sugar and Indigo.

N. B. Tho' the Dutch have ſo little in this Part of the World, they make themſelves ample amends in the Eaſt-Indies for what is wanting to them in the Weſt.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Hague, June 16. We grow impatient for the Return of the Expreſſes ſent to Vienna, and Granada, with the laſt Propoſals of the Allies of Seville. The Purport of them we have not yet been able to learn; but in general we underſtand, they are ſuch as his Imperial Majeſty cannot with any Colour of Reaſon reject: And it is ſo true that a Negociation is commenced between the Court of Vienna and thoſe of Great-Britain and France, which act as Mediators in this Affair, that two Expreſſes, one from London, and the other from Paris, went thro' Bruſſels laſt Wedn. on their Way to Vienna. On the whole, our chief Politicians are perſuaded we ſhall have no War, but that all things will in the End be amicably adjuſted. Poſſibly the Spaniards may not be very well pleaſed with this; but Cardinal Fleury ſpares no Pains to bring the Queen of Spain over to his Sentiments: And let the News-Papers ring the Chimes never ſo roundly upon the Preparations that are every where making for War, it is certain they are carried on ſo ſlowly, that the Emperor is at preſent in no great Danger of being forced; neither do we hear, that the Ships deſigned for the Expedition ſo much talked of are any where victualled; at leaſt, they are not ſo in this Country; nor have the Troops nominated to go on board them, yet received Orders to march to any of the Ports. It is true, our three Men of War are ready to put to Sea; but they are not yet ſailed, tho' the Wind has been very fair. They are deſigned for the Mediterranean, where they are to join Commadore Schryver, and make up his Squadron ſix Men of War. Orders are ſent to him, that as ſoon as he has delivered the Preſents to the Dey of Algiers, he is to go and cruiſe upon the Coaſt of Sallee, till the Arrival of the three other Ships, and his Inſtructions.

They write from Berlin, that they are grieved to hear the Differences between the Kings of Great-Britain and Pruſſia are far from being reconciled; that the Intermarriages ſo ardently wiſhed, are in a Manner broke off; and that they will ſcarce be brought on again till the Concluſion of the Peace, when his Pruſſian Majeſty, being leſs neceſſary, may perhaps abate of his Pretenſions.

Letters from good Hands at Vienna, dated the 4th Inſt. are full of the Hopes they conceive, that an Expedient will at laſt be found to preſerve the Peace; and that by the Interpoſition of England in particular, the Courts of Vienna and Spain will once more be Friends. The Truth is, if in the Cardinal-Miniſter's Plan of Accommodation, the Allies of Seville undertake the Guaranty of the Emperor's Territories in Italy and the Auſtrian Netherlands, in Favour of the Archduchеſſes his Imperial Majeſty's Daughters, we cannot ſee why it ſhould not take Effect; eſpecially, conſidering the Imperial Miniſters are very well aware how backward the Empire is in meddling with Affairs which concern that Prince's Domains above mentioned.

Our freſheſt Advices from Paris are of the 12th Inſtant, and aſſure us, that the Cardinal-Miniſter makes it his whole Study to prevent a Rupture, and at the ſame Time purſues the old Scheme, by cementing the Friendſhip of France and Spain.

Their Sea-Officers are continually ſetting out for Provence, and new Orders are ſent thither in relation to the Don Carlean Expedition, in caſe the Emperor ſhould not acquieſce with the laſt Propoſals of the Allies of Seville: But every Thing goes on ſo ſlowly, that it is very plain the Cardinal has not a War in View.

We are informed, that in the laſt Council held at Fontainebleau, upon the Affairs of the preſent Juncture, the Spaniſh Party, having the Duke du Maine at their Head, inſiſted, that a poſitive Declaration ſhould be made to the Emperor, that unleſs he readily comes into the Ultimatum agreed upon in the Conferences between the Miniſters of the Allies of Seville, they will immediately proceed to the Performance of their Engagements with the Court of Spain, for the Introduction of 6000 Spaniards into Italy: And not only ſo, but that they ought to be as good as their Words, which might be eaſily done, by making a Diverſion upon the Rhine and in the Netherlands. But the Cardinal's Sentiments are more Pacific: He is not for precipitating in any Reſpect, and does not deſpair but that he ſhall by that means bring Matters to an amicable Iſſue. Mean while, the Spaniſh Miniſters treat with his Eminency altogether in Writing, to juſtify themſelves to the Queen, who complains, that the Seaſon is indeed pretty far advanced, but for the reſt, Things are much in the ſame State they were ſix Months ago; and is perſuaded, that the Emperor would have complied long ſince, had the Allies acted with that Vigour and Readineſs which her Majeſty had promiſed herſelf.

The late Rigours, in relation to the Conſtitution Unigenitus, have proved diſagreeable to moſt of the Pariſians, where a great Number of the Prieſts (as well as in the Country) preach openly againſt the Jeſuits and their pernicious Maxims. This has occaſioned a ſort of Conſcience-War, which has already ſet Families together by the Ears, and grows ſo hot, that none knows where it will end.

Hague, June 20. They write from Hanover, that the Regency there having received two Expreſſes from Roſtock and Beitzehburg, with the News of the Duke of Mecklenburg's Arrival at Swerin, immediately diſpatched an Expreſs to London, to acquaint the King of Great-Britain with it.

Affairs at Rome ſtand much as they were. But one Piece of News from Naples we know not well how to omit, ſince it puts that whole Kingdom into a moſt terrible Conſternation: The Matter is this. Whereas the Blood of the glorious S. Genaro, which was uſually congealed, and only liquifies when brought in Preſence of the Head of that Beatified Saint, has been found wholly liquified in its Repoſitory: Now they will not be perſuaded, but that this Prodigy muſt needs portend ſome direful Event.

By the laſt Holland Mail, which came in late on Mon. laſt, we learn, that Sultan Eſhref, the vanquiſhed Perſian Uſurper, is arrived at Conſtantinople, having ſaved himſelf with much Difficulty, after the Defeat of his Army by Shah Thamaſip, who ſent 30000 Horſe to purſue him: He earneſtly ſollicits the Ottoman Porte to ſuccour him againſt the victorious Thamaſip, who is powerfully ſupported by the Great Mogul: upon which 30000 Men are ſent to prevent the ſaid Sofi of Perſia from attacking the Provinces granted by Eſhref to the Porte. The Grand Signor continues dangerouſly ill. —— And that, the Hopes of Peace increaſe daily at Vienna, that Court being ready to enter into Negociations on the Foot propoſed by the Allies of Seville, for accommodating the Affairs of Italy; however the Generals are to go thither, even if there be no Rupture, in which Caſe it is ſaid, the new Troops will remain in Italy, and the old ones be drawn from thence.

The Affairs of the Conclave at Rome are more embroiled than ever, the Election ſeems very far off, and the Cardinals (54 in Number) have had their Summer Furniture brought into their Cells. A new Party was lately formed in Favour of Cardinal Davia, ſupported by that of France, and he had 29 Voices in the laſt Scrutiny; but immediately after Affairs took another Turn.

The Imperial Troops continue to arrive in Italy, the Number of which amounts to 30,000 Men.

The Duke of Mecklenburg is augmenting his Garriſon at Swerin, and has ſent one of his Secretaries to execute a Commiſſion of Importance with the King of Pruſſia; upon which the Courts of Hanover and Wolfenbuttel have ordered their Troops to have an Eye on the Motions of thoſe of the Garriſons of Swerin and Domitz.

Leghorn, June 3. It is currently reported (here and elſewhere) that the Difference between Spain and the Emperor is accommodated; that Don Carlos, with 6000 Soldiers, ſhall be peaceably admitted into Tuſcany; the Emperor being firſt paid for the Charge he has been at in raiſing and marching the Troops, &c. 4000 of which are ſaid to be arrived in the State of Maſſa. The Court of Florence appears in Tranquillity, and ſhews no Sign of Fear, either of Spaniards or Germans. A French Ship is arrived with a ſuſpicious Bill of Health from Salonica, which makes it feared, that the Plague is in that City.

Laſt Week ſeveral Perſons were ſeized at Paris, for diminiſhing the Louis d'Ors, by making them ſix or ſeven Grains lighter each; and among them is an Abbot, who has annual Benefices to the Amount of 3000 Livres.

Notwithſtanding what the News-Papers have ſaid of the King of Sardinia's acceding to the Treaty of Seville, we are well aſſured, that his ſaid Majeſty has declared he will remain Neuter: But at the ſame time, he has given the Moſt Chriſtian King to underſtand, that if he ſhould have Occaſion to ſend any Troops thro' his Territories, he will not refuſe them Paſſage, upon certain Conditions.

Highneſſes the Prince of Wales and the Duke, together with all the reſt of the moſt Noble Knights Companions, in their proper Habits, and all Attendants and Officers which ſhall be thought neceſſary to augment the Grandure of this magnificent Solemnity. Several Gentlemen, who were gone to their Country Seats, are returned to their Places of Abode, partly to take Care of their own Affairs, in this dangerous Time, and partly to convince People of their being free from any Fear or Apprehenſion. The Court did not think proper to declare their Opinion, it being usual, in the like Cases, to take the Assistance of all the rest of the Judges, before whom it is to be argued the next Term. Mr. Huggins afterwards moved to be admitted to Bail, but there being no Precedent of bailing upon a Special Verdict, upon an Indictment of this Kind, the Court would not grant the Motion. But upon Mr. Huggin's Affidavit of the Danger he was in, (having already lost one of his Eyes and almost his Hearing) by his Confinement in Newgate, and at his Request to be removed, the Court ordered him into the Custody of the Marshal of the Court of King's-Bench.——Mr. Charlsworth the Solicitor, convicted of Forgery, was brought up to the said Court, to receive Sentence, but was then remanded into the Custody of the Marshal.——One *Wm. Mr. Stoneleyton had a Ring on his Finger, which the Villain observed, and some People advancing he cut his Finger off at the Upper Joint, and then dropped his Knife, and make off. There is T. H. in a Cypher upon the Handle of the Knife.——*Tuef.
